

Way to Amazonia 7

Ah, there seems to be another woman with a face around, *and* a piano. After this discovery all the Sue's (i'm a brat... so...; call me straight and I'll... ; Frantz, etc) break out in a nice song to keep the cold away until Jane H. has produced her genie.

Johannah and Jane dt, who came along for the ride, start to build weird un- scientific things with the wood from the fire, rolling over with laughter from time to time. Polly returns from the neck of the woods with a Sign from Linda. They are finished for the night albeit not quite ready yet. It looks like Eva and Linda have set up their own little cosy conference but they deny that furiously when they arrive at the circle. Bettina, ricki and Christina are talking to each other in Italian. Some of the women in their vicinity seem to be affected by the foreign language in an unorthodox way. They giggle and squirm and eye the empty batteries strewn around.

Hannah proposes a rainforest warming party and Shelly immediately agrees and starts making arrangements. At that precise moment a big bang and a flash of lightening pierces the silence of the night and Jane H. stumbles into the circle of women with a big grin on her smeared face and a beautiful genie in her wake. Ooh's and aah's accompany the big bang and the arrival of the genie. Suddenly the circle widens because all the women make room for the genie to sit next to *her*. But the genie smiles benevolently and keeps close to Jane H. Jane H. declares that her genie is a magic dyke and that she is prepared to fulfill one wish for every woman present. The wish should be sapphic and may be stated in any major European language. Marlies starts to giggle because she misunderstands Jane's words. Sapphic sounds a bit like 'sappig' in Dutch, and then means 'juicy'.

All the women start to think about some nice juicy sapphic wish to be fulfilled by the beautiful genie. Silence returns in the forest again.

After a while the genie gets up and kneels next to every woman to hear their wishes. All women strain their ears to understand the whispers but nobody knows what the others have wished. After the genie has finished her round, loud creaky laughter fills the woods. The women are shocked when they see Polly dangling upside down in a tree hollering that she has overheard them all.
